RON MACLEAN is one of Canada's most beloved broadcasters and a true icon of our national past time. As the host of CBC's Hockey Night in Canada MacLean has demonstrated the quick wit, keen insight and pride in Canada that viewers across the country respond to and appreciate.

Ron MacLean is a seven-time Gemini Award winner and is widely celebrated as one of the best sports broadcasters in the world. He has demonstrated his knowledge and great range by hosting CBC's coverage of the Summer and Winter Olympic Games, numerous world track and field competitions, World Cup Hockey, and Skins Golf. Ron MacLean's broadcasting career began in 1978 in Red Deer, Alberta. His professionalism, quick wit and charisma brought a succession of more responsible and senior broadcasting roles. He joined Hockey Night in Canada in 1986, and was the full-time host by the next year.

In addition to his duties with CBC Sports, MacLean is a big supporter of minor league hockey in Canada, and is a certified level five referee with Hockey Canada. Born in Germany, where his father was serving as an officer with the Canadian Air Force, Ron and his family moved back to Canada in 1961. He grew up in Chester, Nova Scotia, and Red Deer, Alberta.
